DRIVE INTO U. S. FROM MEXICO WAS HUN PLAN

Invasion Timed to Coincide With Last Offensive on Western Front in July, 1918

Informant Sees Germany in Complete Control of Neighbor Republic After Peace

New York, Aug. 24.—Revelation of extensive German plots in Mexico during the war, which included a proposed invasion of the United States by a German-Mexican army of 45,000 men at the same time that the Germans launched their last drive on the western front in July, 1918, was made here tonight by the national association for the protection of American rights in Mexico.

Became Hun Spy
The association gave out a statement by Dr. P. B. Altendorf, formerly of the United States military intelligence department, reciting his experience as an American secret service agent in that country.

Dr. Altendorf, the son of a Polish banker in Cracow, Austrian Poland, abandoned a medical course in the University of Vienna at the outbreak of the war and fled to Mexico where he was offered a position as a German spy to operate against the United States by Kurt Jahne, head of the German secret service in Mexico.

"With pretended reluctance, but with secret joy I accepted," he said, "and at once found myself in a position to render valuable service to the allies in general and to the United States in particular."

He opened communication with the border as a volunteer worker of the military intelligence department, he claims, and will be later sworn in as a special agent of the military intelligence department.

Information Trustworthy
The association states that it has investigated his claims and that Brig. Gen. Marlborough Churchill, the head of the military intelligence department, "spoke in terms of the highest praise of the zeal and trustworthiness of Dr. Altendorf and the great value of the services he rendered."

In addition to explaining his activities in Mexico, Dr. Altendorf warns the people of the United States against a proposed German commercial conquest of Mexico.

"Within six months after the United States ratifies the treaty of peace," he says, "Germany will have complete economic control of Mexico. Within a very few years, if they are permitted to carry out the plans they have formulated and are now executing as fast as they can, the Germans will have absolute economic, political and military control of Latin America with headquarters in Mexico."

Trained Reservists
Referring to the proposed invasion of the United States Dr. Altendorf sets forth that in his dual capacity as a captain in the German army and a colonel in the Mexican army he helped to train 900 German reservists in Sonora, who were to form the nucleus of the proposed German-Mexican army, and that in his true character as an American secret service agent he prevented the raid from being carried out.

"This ambitious scheme," he said, "was financed by Von Eckhardt, German ambassador to Mexico, and was undertaken with the co-operation of Carranza."

Disturbances Grow in Silicia, Strikers Shot

London, Aug. 25.—Disturbances in Silicia are spreading and have become more violent according to dispatches from that district received from Berlin. The German commandant has issued a proclamation forbidding strikes and threatening the execution of persons found with arms. Thirty persons have been found violating the proclamation at Byton and were shot, and also nine at Vubrowitz.

People Don't Seem to Want Cheap Flour

Government Trying to Sell Army Flour at Less Than $10 a Barrel Without Success

Washington, Aug. 25.—By United Press.—The government has offered unlimited quantities of flour at $9.85 a barrel in sacks and $10.45 in wood and no one seems to want it accord. ing to announcements made at the office of grain corporations today. For ten days advertisements have announced flour for sale at that price. f. o. b. New York for delivery any place in the United States to wholesalers only. Three cars have been ordered, two of the orders have later been cancelled. The flour is of soft wheat and according to grain corporation officers there is no demand for it because the people of the United States will not buy anything but hard winter wheat flour. This is selling at $14.25 in wood or $13.65 in jute, retail.

Renewed Search Made for Missing Aviators

(By United Press)
San Diego, Calif., Aug. 25.—After another forty-eight hours of fruitless search for Lieut. Waterhouse and Connelly, army aviators, missing since last Wednesday, the hunt was resumed today with a detachment of troops from Ft. Rosencrans and the aeroplanes which have been searching the country to the east of here. The army authorities have trace of the two young officers who left Yuma for the return to Rockwell field in the report of O. J. Adams, a mine engineer who had seen a plane pass by his mine forty miles south of Campo City on Wednesday. Campo is a mountain town on the Mexican border. The search today was centered in lower California where Governor Cantu has offered his assistance to the American searching party.

May Refuse to Ac- cept Treaty Changes

L. C. MARTIN,
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Aug. 25.—It is intimated that the president may refuse to accept a ratification of the peace treaty any senate action which provides for amendments or for reservations. The president may refuse to deposit notice of the ratification at Paris on behalf of the United States if textual amendments as part of the ratification of ratification are made, it was hinted. The general opinion among those discussing the position today was that such action by the president would throw the treaty back into the senate. The senate could then ratify or refuse to take any further action, causing a "deadlock."

Money to Prosecute Profiteers to be Allowed

(By United Press)

Washington, Aug. 25.—$250,000 asked by Attorney General Palmer for the prosecution of profiteers and anti-trust suits will probably be started through congress this week. Conference leaders indicated that requests from other departments for funds may be refused for the present. The appropriation committee was scheduled today to take up Palmer's request which probably will be embodied in a special deficiency measure which will be carried before the house.

Shopmen's De- mands Heard by President

Cancels all Engagements to Attend Conference for that Purpose This Afternoon

RALPH COUCH,
(Staff Correspondent, United Press)

Washington, Aug. 25.—President Wilson today cancelled all his engagements and expects to give all his time to the railway labor situation, at a hearing to take place at 2:15 p. m. at a conference with Rail Director Hines and officials of the Railway Shopmen's Unions, who hope to receive an answer to their demand for wage increase averaging 25% put forward by 500,000 workmen.

A nationwide vote of all shop men on the question of strike is being counted today at the headquarters of the American Federation of Labor. The polls closed last night at midnight. The ballots' two questions were: "Should the Union officials accept the plan proposed by the president, or would the men want to stand on full demand."

Preparing for Special Legislative Session

(By United Press)

St. Paul, Aug. 25.—Governor Burnquist announced that both the senate and house committees on markets in the state legislature will be called together immediately to consider proposed legislation acting the high cost of living. The governor held a conference at the capital with Lieut. Governor Thomas Frankson to discuss the subject.

The state military board will consider the question by request to permit the Minnesota National Guard organization to remain as it is at present. According to announcements made at the capital today the military board has decided not to act on the proposed organization of a guard until after the meeting is ended in Washington.

Senators Influence Department Statement

By RAYMOND CLAPPER
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Aug. 25.—A charge that the department of agriculture through the influence of Senators Copper, Kenyon and Kendrick of Wyoming, had issued statements unfair to packers was made today by L. D. H. Wele, of Swift & Company, before the senate agriculture committee.

"This is rather a serious nature and I can't help wondering what would be said of the packers if they did such a thing," Wele said.

"So you charge that Senator Kendrick and Senator Copper influenced the department to put out an incorrect statement?" Senator Kenyon asked. "One that put us in the wrong light," Wele replied.

According to testimony put on record, the department of agriculture last month planned to issue a statement on the situation declaring "that the packers of the United States were rightly blamed."

Following this a statement was issued declaring that the "packers manifestly unfair," Wele said. Calling the congressional statement of August 5 as his proof of this statement, Wele defended the charge.

Interned Germans Es- cape, are Recaptured

(By United Press)

Chillicothe, Ohio, Aug. 25.—Eighteen of the escaped twenty interned German sailors who escaped from Camp Sherman near here during a severe electrical storm were recaptured, camp authorities said today. They crawled through a tunnel from the camp cellar to a street thirty feet away. It was said the men completed the tunnel some time ago and awaited opportunity to use it. Discovery of the escape followed immediately. All the soldiers and the police from the nearby towns were engaged in the hunt. All the prisoners recaptured were found in nearby towns.

May Force Japan to Pub- lish Agreement

To Return Shantung to China, Which is Said to be in Writing but Not Published

BY FRED S. FERGUSON,
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Aug. 25.—A renewed attempt to force Japan to publish an agreement whereby she guarantees the ultimate return of Shantung to China is believed likely today as a result of a situation growing out of amendments of Foreign Relations committee. This agreement while verbal in so far as the league or the peace conference are concerned, is in existence in writing. Japan has however heretofore consistently refused to permit its publication. An attempt to obtain "release" of the actual wording of this agreement was made some two months ago in Paris. Another approach on Japan to publish the agreement was made but with no success. Many of the diplomats connected with the peace conference feel that the president's hand would be strengthened should the actual text of the Japan agreement be published and for that reason the previous attempt to smoke out Japan, will receive support from other powers who are anxious to see an early American ratification of the treaty.

TROOPS HOME FROM RUSSIA 1,000 Soldiers, With Bodies of Slain Comrades, Arrive

San Francisco, Aug. 23.—Bearing 1,000 troops from Vladivostok, most of whom enlisted in Hartford, Conn., and the bodies of twenty of their comrades slain in defense of the trans-Siberian railroad, the transport Sheridan, crippled through the breaking of its tail shaft three days out from Honolulu arrived yesterday in tow of the United States supply ship Vestal.

Two Lost Aviators Have Been Located at Terlingua, Texas

(By United Press)

El Paso, Aug. 25.—The bandit chase in Mexico by American cavalry men and aviators has ended. The United States forces are back at this side of the border. Withdrawal became effective Sunday night when further search for the bandits seemed futile.

The American troops during the six days killed five bandits, arrested six suspects. They went sixty miles into East Chihuahua. The American casualties were only a few packs lost in the mountain cliffs.

Aviators George Rice and Louis Vouquet, missing on a flight from Marfa were located at Terlingua, Texas, where they were forced to land.

Bandit Leader Killed

Marfa, Aug. 25.—Jesus Renteria, the bandit leader was shot and killed by Lieut. R. Cooper when the bandits fired on Cooper's machine, according to Lieut. Harold G. Peterson, who reached here tonight.

Peterson's report that Jesus Renteria had been killed failed to cheer with reports at military headquarters. An official army report said Jesus Renteria was believed to have been located 60 miles south of Chihuahua City, where he was said to be hiding.

Scouts Tell Tale

Peterson said he received his information that Renteria had been killed from scouts.

"Two bandits were were pursuing yesterday told ranchers along the route that Jesus Renteria had been killed when Lieutenant Cooper returned the rifle fire of three horsemen," he said.

"The ranchers in return, informed our scouts."

The Americans were hot on the trail of the bandit gang last night with the intention of continuing the pursuit all night, according to Lieutenant Peterson, who returned today by airplane. Lieutenant Peterson said he accompanied a scout patrol which was endeavoring to follow the bandits and they encountered a Carranza outpost, guarding a force of 300 federal Mexican soldiers. The patrol returned to the main command and after a conference it was decided wiser to wait until daylight, in view of the presence of Carranza soldiers.

Washington, August 25.—The decision to withdraw from Mexico the cavalry troops who crossed the border in pursuit of the bandits who captured two aviators was wholly a military one, and was not influenced by diplomatic negotiations now in progress. The trail, the army officers said, grew cold, and they decided it was time to withdraw. The orders to General Dickman at the time of the crossing into Mexico gave him authority to withdraw without further word from Washington.

"TAKE TREASY OUT OF COLD STORAGE"

WILSON SPOKESMEN DEMAND
EARLY ACTION LOOKING TO RATIFICATION.

CRUCIAL STATE IS REACHED

Amendment Votes Hoped for This Week—Much Oratory is Prepared.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 19.—Senator Hitchcock, leader of the supporters of the treaty with Germany in the senate committee on foreign relations, has issued the following statement
through the league to effect peace:
Hitchcock's Statement.

"The treaty ratification situation has changed somewhat during the past week. A new issue was raised when I asked the chairman of the foreign relations committee and minority members when they proposed to get action."

"I took the course after consulting with a number of senators. There has been a growing demand for action by the committee. It has had the treaty since July 10, for five weeks, therefore, the treaty has been in cold storage without a vote or any other action."

Country is Waiting.
"The senate is waiting, and the country is waiting, and the impatience is increasing. Every one knows that the enemies of the treaty and opponents of the league of nations control the committee. Everyone also knows that they do not control the senate.
Public sentiment resents the suggestion that the opponents of the treaty might keep it locked up in the committee, and this greatly delays ratification."

"When I raised the issue in the committee, it became manifest that several republican members were opposed to further delay, and so an understanding was reached for voting.
Since then several days of additional delay have intervened, but we hope to begin voting in committee this week on proposed amendments. We ought to get the treaty reported back to the senate in a week or ten days.

Harm in Delay.
"It is of little importance what the committee does as long as it does something. If it recommends amendments, the senate will reject them.
If it mutilates the treaty, the senate will cure the damage done, the chief harm that the committee can do is in causing delay."

"Everyone realizes that we are still suffering from war, and that the first step toward relief is to ratify the peace treaty. The President's address served to arouse the country to the importance of treaty ratification as one of the steps necessary to reduce the cost of living."

H. C. L. Affected.
"He has very properly connected the high cost of living with the war. He has shown that we cannot get rid of war conditions and war evils until peace comes, with its normal conditions."

Kosbab-Peppel

Hosts of friends in this city will be interested to learn of the marriage of Miss Frances Adaline Peppel, only daughter of Mrs. Mary Peppel, and Edwin Theodore Kosbab, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Kosbab, of Brainerd, Minnesota, which was solemnized Sunday afternoon at three o'clock at the bride's home, 2004 Colby avenue. The living room, in which the ceremony was read, was a bower of fragrant blossoms and trailing English ivy. In a window above a canopy of ivy, sweet peas and Shasta daisies had been arranged, and under this the bridal party stood while the ceremony was being read. To the strains of the "Bridal Chorus" from Lohengrin, played by Professor H. B. R. Mantey, at the piano, the bridal party preceded by little Miss Lillian Marie Leese, cousin of the bride, wearing a dainty frock of fluffy white material with a pink ribbon sash and hair bows to match, entered the room, carrying a bouquet of sweet peas and baby breath and a single rose, in which the wedding ring was placed. Then came the bride, dainty and girlish in a gown of white georgette. Her tulle veil was held in place with a band of orange blossoms and fell to the hem of her gown. She carried a beautiful arm bouquet of sweet peas and carnations. Miss Edna Stitz, as bridesmaid, wore a dress of pink georgette, with a corsage bouquet of sweet peas and baby breath. The groom was attended by Professor O. Matney, of Yakima. The party was met at the improvised altar by the Rev. E. H. Brandt, of the Emanuel Lutheran church, who read the impressive service in the presence of relatives and friends of the bride and groom. Just preceding the ceremony, Mrs. Otto Leese sang "The Prayer Perfect." She was accompanied by Mrs. Richard Kosbab at the piano. Immediately following the ceremony Mrs. Leese sang "O Perfect Love," and was accompanied by Professor Mantey at the piano. At the conclusion of the song an elaborate luncheon was served at small tables in the dining room. Centering each table was a dainty French basket tied with pink tulle bows and filled with sweet peas and baby breath. The table of the bride and groom was centered by a beautiful large wedding cake, which was cut by the bride. Later in the evening Mr. and Mrs. Kosbab left on a wedding tour to St. Paul and Brainerd. Going away Mrs. Kosbab wore a dark blue suit of tailored tricot and a black velvet picture hat. Mrs. Kosbab was a student at Concordia college at St. Paul and was graduated with the class of 1917. Upon their return they will reside in Everett.—Everett, (Wash.) Daily Herald.

TWO LETTERS

By ELIZABETH I. SAUNDERS.

"Now, Dot, for goodness' sake pocket your pride and plan to go to that dance with us. Even if Wallie is there you won't be obliged to notice him, although I think you are just mean to treat him that way. Now, please, Dot, just this once," pleaded Helen.

"Well, maybe, but still I won't promise yet. I will tell you positively in the morning."

It was now just four months since the two offensive letters had caused so many sleepless nights for two young people, and even four months would not wear away the pain and jealousy that was bound to get the best of both concerned.

Wallie had gone to France, leaving behind him a little girl who had promised to be true to him only. It had made the parting easier to know that she was all his as soon as his duty had been accomplished over there.

Some time later two letters crossed on their way to each of the lovers, both intended to bring happiness and comfort to the other, but instead brought unhappiness and even tears.

"Dear Wallie," one had started. "Helen has brought me the dearest little fellow. I call him Duke as he is so polite and gentle. He is a little mite and so cunning. I know you will love him when you see him."

At the same time a little, blond, frowns head tossed uneasily on the pillow and two nervous eyelids seemed to be having a hard fight to keep closed, then all at once she sat straight up in bed. The all-offensive paragraph of the letter ran through his mind.

"I am so lonesome tonight, dearest, for two people. You are one, of course, and the other is the dearest little lady in the world. She is another man's wife, so don't be jealous. I love her so much and I know you will, too, when you know her as I do. I got a letter from her today and how I long to see her."

"Another man's wife, indeed, so don't be jealous." I didn't think Wallie would love another man's wife. He never seemed like that kind. But she can have him, that is, if her husband doesn't object," and with an angry tug at the sheets, she flung herself back on the pillow for a restless sleep.

Saturday dawned bright and clear for all with the exception of Duke, who had discovered to his discomfort and misery that too much sweets were not good for little fellows like himself. Dot left Duke and started for the dance with Helen and her brother. Dot was prettier than ever and so radiant. Inwardly she was fighting two battles, trying to conceal her jealousy for Wallie, but outwardly she showed only the worry for Duke. Apparently she hadn't noticed Wallie. But indeed she had, she had also noticed that he was alone.

"Beg pardon, Dot, but would it be asking too much if I asked for just one dance?" attempted Wallie. "Not at all, or even two would be but a slight favor," coolly answered Dot, with a bit of sarcasm in her voice that Wallie did not notice, due to the fact that the thought of two dances with Dot overjoyed him. "Couldn't make it three, could you?" he almost pleaded. "Possibly."

At the end of the eight dances they enjoyed together, Wallie ventured: "Dot, since Duke isn't here to protect you through the streets tonight to your home, would it be agreeable to you for me to escort you to your door?"

What could be the matter with Wallie? What was he talking about? "Why, Wallie, I don't understand what you are saying. Poor Duke couldn't protect me."

At the end of their journey home—word, which came too soon for both concerned. Dot in her excitement invited Wallie to call the next day. "I would sure love to, Dot, but how about Duke? Are you quite sure he won't be jealous?" "Duke—jealous—why, Wallie, I do believe you think Duke is a young man." The telltale expression on Wallie's face confirmed her statement, so as soon as she could conceal the amusement the little misunderstanding had afforded she ventured: "Wallie, you are a jealous goose. Duke is just a dear little four-legged fellow; in other words, a little Boston terrier." "Good heaven, Dot, I have been an idiot. Can you ever forgive me?"

Dot was about to say "Yes," but the offending paragraph of Wallie's letter ran through her mind as it had a million times since that letter had arrived. "But, Wallie, what about the—the other man's wife?" "Who?" "You know the one you wrote about?" After a moment's contemplation Wallie recalled her reference and his face clouded. "Dot, dear, I never dreamed that you could misinterpret my letter that way. I still love that little lady more than anything else on earth, with the exception of your own dear little self, and she is married to another man, too. That man is my best pal—he's my dad; so you see you were just jealous of my mother. Now, what have you to say?"

"Oh, Wallie, I'm so sorry. Can you forgive me?" "We don't know what he said, but a few weeks later at the wedding of this happy pair sat the other man's wife, fondly stroking the head of the cute and cunning Duke."

"Here's wishing Duke a long life, even if he is my cute rival," laughed Wallie. "And here's happiness and long life to the other man's wife—our mother," finished Dot.

EDITOR ON WRONG TRACK

Editor A. J. Halsted of the Brainerd Tribune, is against the Babcock amendment, and his argument is that it is not fair, because the automobile owners have to pay the entire cost of the proposed paved highways. He contends that the benefitted property, especially farm lands should pay a portion of this expense, and then he swings around and reasons that it is unfair to the other taxpayers because the proposed automobile license is in lieu of all other taxation. The argument lacks logic. In the first place about forty per cent of the automobiles escape taxation altogether. The number returned by the assessors is only about 60 per cent of the number of licenses issued by the secretary of state.

Brother Halsted also contends that the proposition is unconstitutional. If a majority of the people of the state vote to put the amendment into the constitution it will be constitutional all right. There is no higher authority than the expressed will of a majority of the voters.

Minnesota needs good roads. It needs roads of permanent construction, and this is the only plan proposed where the state can get them. It is true these roads will be of tremendous direct value to the farmers of the state, but they will also be of great benefit to the cities. The automobile owners who pay the expense will receive back three or four times the value in the saving of gasoline, tires, springs, and general up-keep of the cars. It is a big money saving scheme for them. If the automobiles build and maintain seven thousand miles of permanent highways in Minnesota, they are doing their full share and the comparatively small amount of taxes they pay can be well taken over by the general taxpayers, and this in a measure meets Halsted's first objection.

Here is another phase of the question: Nearly all the money now expended on the highways is of little value. It is nearly all expended upon the state highways, and the rest of the roads of the state are receiving little attention. In spite of the fact that the money from the counties and the state road fund are put on a few roads, these roads of dirt construction cannot be maintained in anything like good condition, and under the increased traffic, the making and maintaining of good roads is practically impossible.

It is condition that confronts the commonwealth, and not any fine hair-dreaded theory.

If the Babcock amendment is adopted all the money now spent on the state highways will be used on other roads, and this is of equal importance. These auxiliary roads can be maintained by grading and graveling in excellent condition, because they are not subjected to the tremendous traffic of the main highways. It is the only way in which the people living off the state highways can get good roads—and unless the Babcock amendment is adopted, we are not going to have any good roads anywhere no matter how much money we spend until we make paved highways.

It is a surprise that so generally a progressive citizen as Brother Halsted should oppose the very best plan ever devised for the benefit of all the people of the state, country and cities alike, when the money saving the bills are only to glad to do it, because it is a money saving investment for them.

The defeat of the Babcock amendment would be a hard blow to the commonwealth, and we have confidence that the good sense of a large majority of the people will see that it is approved.

RICH ON BORROWED CAPITAL

To bring the world's business to a stable plan and the world's thinking back to calmness, optimism must inspire industry, and thrift wait on both. But the glare of optimism must not blind the eyes to things as they are, nor to the existence of laws that never change. We in America seem prosperous beyond precedent. We speak of the New Era as though it were a literal Eldorado. We say the old order has passed; that a clean slate is ready for all to make their mark upon; and there is strong color of truth in all this.

But a stern condition exists. The world is poorer today, materially and immediately poorer than it was five years ago. On a comparatively small fraction of the earth's surface, but in the very heart of the world's industry and commerce, twenty million producing persons are dead before their time, or are made permanently unproductive by the war. The machinery with which they produced, is wrecked or rusted; the zest to produce is dulled. Goods that sustained life are wholly lost out of the world's stock in trade.

The world has never before sustained a dead loss of any such proportions. It is impossible to say how or when the world will recover; but that it is poorer than it was five years ago is incontrovertible. That it is in debt beyond all previous records the books show, and no one disputes. And yet conditions are called unprecedentedly prosperous.

The fact is, we are prosperous on borrowed money; and in so far as we are squandering, we are squandering borrowed money. Loss and debt may breed thrift. They did in France in 1871. But the thrift of France was not showy. It did not look anything like the American type of prosperity. It was made up of self-denial, small economies, ceaseless labors. Patches and plain food were its hall-marks.

There is no royal way to recover from war. The fiddler at the war dance always drives a hard bargain. He may take a note of hand as evidence of the debt, but not at payment of the bill. Principal and compound interest must be paid to the last farthing.—Minneapolis Journal.

Airplanes in Race to Canadian City

New York, Aug. 25.—Airplanes of all sorts were to start today in the round-trip handicap race for American-built planes between New York and Toronto. The American Flying club has charge of the program.

Commercial, as well as pleasure cars, were to take part in the contest, which, according to the rules, may as well be won by a slow ship as a speedy one. The directors have worked out a mathematical formula, they contend, whereby the slower ships, benefitted by a handicap, may finish last and yet win the prizes. The formula includes horse-power, weight and time of flight.

The prizes run from small amounts to the Commodore prize of $10,000. Army fliers will be entered, but the war department has forbidden their acceptance of any prizes.

SURE TO ACT IN BEHALF OF FRANCE

SENATE WILL PROMISE PROTECTION EVEN IF THE PRESENT TREATY IS REJECTED.

POPULAR SENTIMENT STRONG

Great Help the French People Gave the Colonies Is Not Forgotten—Ambassador Jusserand Proves That It Was Not Selfish.

By EDWARD B. CLARK.
 Washington.—Senators may doubt their authority under the Constitution to ratify the French treaty, and they may not ratify it, but lacking ratification, the mind of the opposition apparently is in favor of doing something equally strong and comprehensive in behalf of France.

It is known that some of the senators, and perhaps what is known of them is true of the majority, feel there is a sentiment in behalf of France and its cause among the people of the United States that will necessitate some adequate recognition of the French people's need, for that is what it is, for protection against the German when he shall have rehabilitated himself, and the old spirit of hatred against his neighbor to the west shall have reasserted itself. Common political sense if not gratitude, observers say, probably will dictate a response to the request embodied in the treaty, even if the treaty in its present form should not be sanctioned.

It is held by men who seem to have an appreciation of the situation that Americans of long American ancestry are by hereditary sympathies and instinct just as grateful to France for what it did for this country in the revolutionary days as were Americans of that time. On the other hand, it is said that American citizens of an ancestry which does not go back to revolutionary days in this country do not share the same feeling. It is recognized by the men who talk about it that this condition is natural and yet one which would be unnatural if the "citizens of a later day" would look at the thing from another point of view.

Debt Rests on Later Comers, Too.

No one knows just what proportion of Americans can trace their ancestry back to revolutionary or pre-revolutionary days, but it is probable that much more than one-half of the citizens of the United States date the arrival of their ancestors at a time later than the battle of Yorktown.

It is likely to be brought out in debate in the senate in order to make popular sentiment approve of a probable affirmative action of some kind in this case, that if it had not been for French help in the revolutionary war there would have been no free country in America for the ancestors of many American citizens to have come to in the pursuit of life, liberty and happiness.

Frequently the argument is advanced by opponents of the sanctioning of the French treaty that France came to the aid of the United States only because she wanted to weaken Great Britain by separating her from one of her colonies, and also to make it certain that a considerable part of the British army and navy should be confined to operations on this side of the Atlantic. In other words, the argument is that France was essentially selfish.

It is not known to what extent the ambassador of the French to this country, J. J. Jusserand, can enter into activities in behalf of a treaty in which his country's future safety is said to be involved, but already Mr. Jusserand in a book written before the present war pictured the world as given an explanation of the reasons for French aid to the colonies which may be enlightening in the present treaty making.

Why France Aided Colonies.

The ambassador in a volume containing articles on Rochambeau in America; L'Enfant, the French engineer who planned the city of Washington; Lafayette, and on some other Frenchmen as well as some Americans, went deeply into the reasons for French aid to the colonies. He tells also of pre-revolutionary days in France, of the growing love for liberty in France, of the sympathies among the people for another people who were struggling for something which the French had not yet been able to obtain for themselves, and of what he holds to be the undoubted fact that it was the democratic spirit of France, rousing into life, that led to the fitting out of the expeditions, military and naval, which came to the aid of the American colonists.

The expeditions went forth not because of Louis XVI, but in spite of him. This in brief is the Jusserand argument. The ambassador goes into minute details, gives names and outlines the various movements, democratic in their nature, which led other Frenchmen to follow Lafayette into the field of liberty's struggle in America.

The sanctioning of the French treaty as it is depends perhaps upon a like course in reference to the covenant of the League of Nations, but it is said here today that no matter what may happen to the French treaty so far as its present wording is concerned, the United States senate probably will commit itself to some plan which it believes will satisfy the French.

AMUSEMENTS

At the Best Tonight

A character that might have stepped out of the pages of Dickens—a "Gaiety Gang." For instance, is "Mother Hawkins," the picturesquely old sinner who conducts a "fence" in the underworld, and whose place is the resort of second-story men and yeggs in "Hearts Asleep," Bessie Barriscale's latest picture.

"Mother Hawkins" is admirably portrayed by Anna Dodge, an actress who has made an enviable reputation on the legitimate stage in character parts.

In one scene the old "lady" is seen entertaining a party in honor of "Gentleman Chi," a master crook who honors her menage with a visit. Although hefty in weight, the old girl gives a sparkling demonstration of the "light fantastic" by performing a jig and highland fling.

"Mother Hawkins" can't understand why Nancy (Bessie Barriscale) would rather scrub floors for a wage than earn a decent living by picking pockets.

"In spite of all the edification I've learned that girl, she won't steal a cent," says the old woman. "Ain't she the ungrateful thing!"

The scene at "Mother Hawkins" is one of the richest bits of comedy ever thrown on the screen, and what the action doesn't register the titles will. "Hearts Asleep" was produced by B. B. Features, Inc., for release by Exhibitors Mutual.

The picture was directed by Howard Hickman, responsible for the latest Barriscale successes.

At the Best Tomorrow

Lila Lee, diminutive Paramount star, has an entirely different role from that of her preceding pictures in her latest picture "Rustling a Bride," which will be displayed at the Best theatre tomorrow.

Although the public has only seen four of her pictures, she is already one of the most popular stars in the profession. In this, her latest production, Miss Lee portrays the role of a little girl of the West—a typical out-door girl who is as much at home in a saddle as the modern society belle is in a limousine.

Miss Lee is an expert horsewoman and pronounces this picture one of the most enjoyable she has yet made. Her work in this characterization is excellent and it doubtless will outrank all her other efforts.

An excellent story and the most realistic atmosphere and settings have been provided to make this picture one of the best the star has yet appeared in. Monte Blue is her leading man.

British Abandon Army Base in France

(By United Press)

Rouen, France (By Mail)—Rouen has been demobilized by the British, and the historic old Normandy capital, camouflaged for five years as an "Army Post Office No. 2," and the British advanced base throughout the war, has been abandoned to the French. Only about 1,500 British troops, mostly Indians, remain to guard and supervise the removal of the last of the vast British army stores and German prisoners. Rouen for nearly five years has never had less than fifty thousand British troops quartered in the vicinity. It was the Record Office headquarters, or "Third Echelon," as it was known to the B. E. F. British army units are being auctioned, and snapped up eagerly, and in a few weeks only the British cemetery will be left to remind the citizens of the great British war base.

The Lure of the Open Road

A MAN who owns a motor car—be it a big, luxurious limousine or only a little flyver, has at command the means of satisfying one of his most primitive instincts, a desire to fare forth like a true adventurer and enjoy the freedom of the open country.

Accompanied by his family or his friends, he, like the Argonauts, can start a little journey into unfamiliar places.

He need have no fear of consequences, for the modern automobile is a sturdy, dependable friend. All it asks is gasoline, a little lubricating oil, and water. With this it goes up hill and down, without fret or worry.

The wayside brook, or the well on a friendly farm supplies the water, while gasoline and oil may be had anywhere from the Service Stations of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana).

The splendid system of distribution organized and maintained by the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) covers every city, town, and hamlet, and in many cases there is a tank and pump beside the little store at the fork of the roads.

This complete distribution of its products is one of the chief services rendered by the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) to the motorists of America, yet it represents but one of the many benefits derived by the public at large from the operation of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) as a public servant.

WOULD ESTABLISHED QUAKER COLONY HERE

S. Donald Rogers, Minister of the Gospel According to that Faith

HERE FOR THAT PURPOSE

Says That Quaker Colonies Always Add to the Prosperity of Any Community

S. Donald Rogers, a minister of the gospel according to the quaker faith, as his card reads, is at the Ransford hotel. His mission here is to look over the county for the purpose of finding a suitable place for locating a colony of people of the Quaker faith.

Mr. Rogers said that if after looking the county over a suitable place can be found and the land purchased at a suitable price the colony will be located here.

These people are always farmers of great thrift and industry and are progressive and public spirited. If the county is so fortunate as to secure their location here it will be a distinct asset to the entire community.

LOCAL MAN IN TROUBLE

Held in Little Falls for Robbery—Had Gun and Brass Knuckles when Arrested

A young man, giving his name as Roy Warner, was picked up at the local station last night by H. Friesinger. He had a gun and a pair of brass knuckles in his possession. The arrest came as a result of a story told Mr. Friesinger earlier in the evening by a man who had been beaten up and robbed of $8.80 somewhere up the main line. He told of having been beaten and robbed by three men and the probability of their arrival on the next train.

The young man who was picked up later is said to have admitted having started out with two others and he was reasonably sure that those were the two that robbed the man, but he was not with them at the time. In a conversation with the police he told them, according to information received today, that he had been implicated in three robberies in the last week in Brainerd. He said that the other two men and himself were on their way to Little Falls with brass knuckles and lead pipes to pick up some easy money. The other two have not put in an appearance and a search for them has been futile.

It is claimed that Warner is on parole from the Red Wing training school. The sheriff of Crow Wing county will arrive some time this afternoon to get the man.—Little Falls Transcript.

ROLL OF HONOR

Arthur M. Hagberg, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Hagberg of this city arrived home on Sunday from service overseas. Mr. Hagberg was with the 45th Eng. M. T. S. and was in the service fifteen months.

Francis W. Green who recently returned from two and a half years service in France, left today for Pine River for a visit, after spending several days with his sister, Mrs. C. Tomlinson.

Destructive Worms

Mrs. E. L. Dixon, was in the Dispatch office today on business. She carried with her four green worms about two and one half inches long, which, she said in a single day practically destroyed a small ash tree growing in her yard, and she captured and brought in the worms to learn their character. If they existed in any quantity they would be most destructive to vegetation.

To Keep the Children Well

Mrs. Amanda Flint, New Philadelphia, O., writes: "I heartily recommend Foley's Honey and Tar. It relieved my little girl of the worst tickling cough. She was so badly annoyed at night I tried great many things and found nothing to help her until I got Foley's Honey and Tar." Contains no opiates. Best for any cold. H. P. Dunn, druggist. mwf

SOLDIER KILLS WIFE.

FRIEND AND HIMSELF

Wounded Veteran Fires Three Shots. Each One Fatal, in Chinese Restaurant

Chicago, Aug. 23—Private William E. Stewart, a returned soldier, shot and killed his wife, Emma Stewart, Charles Schools, who was with her, and himself at the Royal Canton cafe tonight.

On the sleeve of his soldier's uniform were wound stripes. His right hand in a sling, he drew an army pistol with his left, as he entered, and fired only three shots, each causing a death.

Mrs. Stewart and Schools were dining in a booth when Stewart entered. Schools was manager of a meat market. Mrs. Stewart had been cashier there for some time.

Stewart had been a patient at the Fort Sheridan hospital since June 29, when he had been invalided home with a nerve infection of the right wrist as the result of a wound. He was inducted into the service in May, 1918, and served with Company 117 of the train corps an adjutant of the engineers.

DECISION SEEN ON

RAIL SHOP PAY

Washington, Aug. 25—Final determination in connection with the demand for wage increases which have been made by the railway shop crafts will be reached by the railroad administration by today or Tuesday, and formal announcement issued by Director W. D. Hines.

The vote which the shopmen took, to determine whether they would strike if wages were not advanced immediately, will be completed by Monday. It is believed that the vote will result in favor of a strike if an agreement is not reached.

It is reported here that the railroad administration is favorable to granting increases to members of the shop crafts who are not receiving wages equal to those paid men employed in similar lines of trade.

Washington, Aug. 25—Withdrawal of the United States from the League of Nations two years after the ratification of the treaty unless all nations abolish conscription before that time was provided in a bill by Senator Jones of Washington, republican. The bill directs the secretary of state to give immediate notice to the league members of the United States' intention to withdraw, because two year notice is required by the league covenant.

The Jones bill was referred to the foreign relations committee.

MASKED MEN ROB BANK

Officials Forced to Lie Face Downward While $40,000 Goes

Newton, Kan., Aug. 23—Forcing three officials and a stenographer of the First National Bank of Newton to lie on the floor, face downward, three masked men robbed the bank yesterday of $20,000 in currency and $20,000 in Liberty bonds. The robbers escaped in a motor car.

Salutes.

Some clever Englishman, commenting on French politeness, once remarked that when a Frenchman bows, two-thirds of the bow is to himself. That may be true, and we have to admit that even the other third is quite a fraction more than most Anglo-Saxons offer.

Saluting is the same proposition. A snappy salute pulled by a buck to the most second of second lieutenants draws heavy interest; and the colonel who jerks his hand a few centimeters from his still affixed cigar is only insulting himself and the army.

If some privates were a little more polite to themselves, the saluting trap never would be sprung and the joke would all be on the other side of the military fence.—Stars and Stripes.

Phyle—What's the trouble?

"In the city the other day I saw an aquatic exhibition advertised—"

"Yes—"

"And I immediately bought tickets."

"You were disappointed?"

"Yes, all I saw was a lot of men in diving suits."

"But what did you expect in an aquatic exhibition?"

"Girls in bathing suits, at least."—Youngstown Telegram.

Maved Venus de Milo From Huns.

M. Heron de Villefosse, the eminent French archeologist, whose death has just taken place, was for many years head of the Greek and Roman sculpture department of the Louvre. Twice in his career he had to superintend the removal of that priceless art treasure the Venus de Milo to a place of safety—in 1870, and again in 1914. In each case the same enemy was concerned. Heron de Villefosse was seventy-four years old.

Going to Look Him Up.

"That fellow Glipping called me 'Old Silenus,'" remarked Mr. Jagshy. "He seemed to think it a great joke." "What are you going to do about it?"

"I haven't decided yet. I have forgotten about all I ever knew about Silenus, but I have an idea that he was neither a pillar in the church nor an ornament to society."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Story of a Dog.

"Marathon races in the woods will never become universal for the reason that speed and stamina like that of Buck Crannell's dog are not universal." In the four-footed hunters," says Warwick S. Carpenter, secretary of the conservation commission. "Mr. Crannell lives at West Glens Falls, and while hunting near there recently his dog picked up a fox track. The dog was picked up next day near Cranberry lake, more than seventy miles away.

"Accounts do not state whether the dog was still going strong or whether he might have taken the fox back to Mr. Crannell but simply that identification of the dog was made by the conservation commission license tag and that Mr. Crannell went after the dog.

"The moral of all this is that if one owns a dog good enough to run a fox through two counties he should surely be protected by an identification tag."—New York Times.

LABOR NEWS

AGAINST "ONE BIG UNION."

Canadian Labor Organization Goes on Record as Also Opposing General Sympathetic Strike.

A definite stand in the fight of labor organizations affiliated with the American Federation of Labor against the One Big Union movement has been taken by the Federated Council of the Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks, Freight Handlers and Express and Station Employees. This organization took part in a strike about two months ago and its troubles were amicably settled by the Canadian Railway Board of Adjustment. The leaders of the organization declare that they are directly opposed to the general sympathetic strike and the One Big Union as demanded by western radicals and that they can be counted upon not to enter into any general strike of railway workers which may be called.

OTHER ITEMS OF INTEREST

Two hundred men and women optical workers met at Chicago and organized the Optical Workers' union. Employees of the Connecticut Breweries company of Meriden, Conn., struck because the management would not guarantee them work after July 1. The strike of cotton mill workers in Lancashire was settled on the basis of the workers obtaining a forty-eight hour week and a 30 per cent increase in wages. Work has been resumed.

A strike of street railway workers in Rock Island and Moline, Ill., and Davenport, Ia., was averted when the conferees of the men and Tri-City Railway company agreed to arbitrate.

Great Britain's public employment service, established 10 years ago, is standing her in good stead in her industrial readjustment, according to R. C. Davison, of the British ministry of labor, recently in Washington.

By unanimous vote the convention of the A. F. of L. decided to cancel before July 1 the so-called Baker-Gompers agreement of June 19, 1917, which provided that there should be no general strike during the period of war.

The strike of 3,500 car men of the Eastern Massachusetts Railway company was officially declared ended and the cars resumed their regular schedules. This action was taken at a meeting of the conference board of the ten local unions that had been on strike.

Manila (P. I.) has a street car strike. Acting Gov. Fenger has refused the request of the labor officials to remove the constabulary guards who are assisting the traction company in maintaining service. Manila officials declare agitators are seeking to oust foreign capital.

The Lowry National Bank of Georgia has adopted a profit-sharing arrangement with its employees. The initial payment to the workers will be 10 per cent of their salaries in the first six months of 1919, future distributions depending upon the bank earnings.

On the ground that the editors violated terms of an injunction issued in the Willys-Overland labor controversy, Federal Judge Killits at Toledo, Ohio, confiscated an entire issue of the New Voice soon after it came off the press. The confiscated issue urged a general strike.

At a meeting of the Omaha Central Labor union it was decided there should be no general strike of union labor in Omaha at the present time. The teamsters were ordered back to work for the employers who had signed the union articles and were promised the moral and financial support of organized labor.

The time lost in Canada on account of industrial disputes during April was much greater than during either March, 1919, or April, 1918. There were in existence during the month 37 strikes, involving 12,415 workpeople and resulting in a time loss to 111,083. Twenty-seven strikes were reported as having commenced during April. At the end of the month 14 strikes affecting approximately 1,812 workpeople remained unterminating.

The general sympathetic strike which had been in progress at Winnipeg, Man., since May 15 was called off. The decision of the strike committee which ended a struggle that had been exactly six weeks in effect followed a conference of delegates of the strike committee with Premier Norris and members of the provincial government. They put forward the proposition that if the government would appoint a commission to investigate into the strike and settle all disputes they would call off the general strike.

Alliance of the National American Train Dispatchers association with the "Big Four" of railroad men's brotherhoods was voted at Chicago by the former organization. The step is in line with the dispatchers' policy of supporting all movements tending to better the wages or working conditions of all classes of railroad employees.

The striking coal miners returned to work everywhere in France, owing to the adoption by parliament of a bill applying the eight hour day to the coal mining industry.
